Okay

Just as an fyi, Ron Hines kind of set up a collaboration with USDA on a pbpk model for cattle, and then he left with no one in charge. It wound up in my lap last April. (b) (5)

Annette should we leave this in? it may confuse the IOAA

Hi Mike and Annette,

As you know species comparison is important paradigm in toxicology in that it lends confidence to extrapolation.

Hope that helps – adding John Wambaugh as well.

Hi Annette,

Dan is out sick today, so I’m copying Mike Tornero on this. Hopefully he can answer the questions.

Also, ISES is requesting the poster to be uploaded by Tuesday, 9/1/2020. I imagine there will be some wiggle room.

Thanks,
Peter

Hi Peter and Dan,

All PFAS materials need to go IOAA, regardless of study area and including if previously presented. Can you let me know deadline for submitting?

Also, there is stock language from the Action Plan that is used to describe PFAS "numbers". See graphic on page 12 of attached. I will forward to IOAA and follow up.

Stay safe and All best, Annette (Mobile: (b) (6)).
